LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OFFICE ANNUAL REPORT 2012

AND THE 2012 ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMONWEALTH PARLIAMENTARY
ASSOCIATION, ALBERTA BRANCH AND INTERPARLIAMENTARY RELATIONS

Celebrate
Alberta's
Legislature
1912-2012

THE AIM WAS TO BUILD THE 'MOST IMPORTANT AND IMPOSING STRUCTURE IN THE PROVINCE.'

(Source: Alberta Department of Public Works Annual Report, 1908)

"...by the graceful structure you have erected you, gentlemen, have shown your sentiment of the dignity of the duties which have to be performed here. In declaring these halls open in the name of His Majesty the King, I do so with the heartfelt prayer that, under the blessing of Almighty God, your deliberations here be inspired by wisdom and foresight, and that your decision may always be for the true and lasting benefit of the Province of Alberta and of the Dominion of Canada." – Governor General, Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught

And so by decree of the Governor General of Canada our grand Legislature was officially opened on September 3, 1912. Designed by provincial architect A.M. Jeffers in the beaux arts style popular between 1895 and 1920, the building was a first of its kind in Alberta and the perfect canvas on which to paint what would become the colourful political landscape of our province.

The construction of the building continued year-round for five years. In order to work through Alberta's severe winters, a heating house equipped with steam pipes covering the entire floor was built to hold yards of stone and sand used in the construction.

Over the last 100 years the Legislature Building has represented many things to Albertans. For some it is the symbol of democracy, providing a forum for activism and citizenship. For others it is a destination and a place to enjoy family events and activities. For others still it is a most cherished landmark, rich with history, tradition and majestic architecture. The Legislature Building is a place for every Albertan, for everyone.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The Legislature Building is 53.64 metres (176 feet) high from the ground line to the top of the dome and 103.63 metres (340 feet) in length.
- The Legislature Building is estimated to have cost $2.4 million.
- Excavation of the building site was completed by steam-powered shovel.
- About 315 train cars were used to transport stone from the Quinlan Carter Co. quarry in southern Alberta.
- The interior walls except in the rotunda and vaults are built of hollow terracotta blocks in order to allow partitions to be removed without interfering with the construction of the building.

Then & Now

On October 1, 1909, a time capsule was placed behind the northeast cornerstone of the Alberta Legislature Building. A brass plaque was placed at the site to denote the time capsule and its significance.

On June 18, 2012, the time capsule was unearthed from behind the cornerstone. Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, and Honourable Heather Klimchuk, Minister of Culture, hosted the ceremony.

On Canada Day, July 1, 2012, the time capsule was placed on display in the rotunda of the Legislature Building. On September 2, at the Party Under the Dome centennial event, the contents of the time capsule were revealed.

1906

The 21 acres for the site on which the Legislature was built were purchased from the Hudson's Bay Company.

1907

Excavation for the building began August 20, 1907.

1908

The first steel for the building frame was laid on August 26, 1908.

1908

A foundation of concrete was started on October 21, 1908.

1909

On May 18, 1909, after the steel frame was completed up to the main floor level, the first granite for the lower level was placed.

1909

The Governor General of Canada, Earl Grey, placed the cornerstone on October 1, 1909.

1910

Work on the grounds surrounding the Legislature Building began in 1910. The intention was to turn the space into a beautiful park.

1911

The library was first to move into the new Legislature Building in November 1911.

1911

The Legislative Assembly first met in the Chamber on November 30, 1911, 11 months before the official opening and before construction of the building was complete.

1912

The transfer of government offices into the new Legislature Building began in early 1912 and continued throughout the year.

1912

The building was officially opened by the Governor General, HRH the Duke of Connaught, on September 3, 1912.

1912

The last tile placed on the dome was reported to have been laid on May 6, 1912.

Building Our Legacy

The year 2012 was one of many milestones.

Albertans went to the polls on April 23, 2012, for the 28th provincial general election. Upon the election call, it was all hands on deck for the Legislative Assembly Office (LAO). At every level of the organization, preparations began in anticipation of the incoming Members. Four new electoral boundaries were added in 2011, thus increasing the number of Members to 87. Following the election, we welcomed 38 new Members to the Legislature, a 45 per cent membership change not seen since 1993. Across all branches this translated into a significant increase in the amount of work involved in orienting the Members to their new roles.

The year 2012 also marked 100 years of the Alberta Legislature Building, the centre of democracy in this province, where every day a piece of history is made. Members of the Legislative Assembly have walked its halls since 1911 and, through impassioned debates, have yielded thoughtful legislation reflecting the needs of our province.

The LAO was established in 1983 to support Members in navigating the changing needs of the electorate. Every day each employee contributes to the whole of the LAO, ensuring that Members have the resources they need to make decisions that ultimately affect Albertans.

To serve as a Member of Alberta’s Legislative Assembly is both an honour and a privilege. Representing the views of our constituents within the House and bestowing a strong voice to all Albertans underpins the foundations of democracy in our province. I am proud to be a part of this distinguished legacy dating back more than a century. I am also extremely proud to oversee the Legislative Assembly Office, an organization that consistently delivers the services that uphold Alberta’s parliamentary establishment.

Honourable Gene Zwozdesky
Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Mission, Vision and Values

Our Mission

To provide nonpartisan parliamentary support to the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly as they carry out their roles as elected representatives.

Our Vision

Respect Tradition

Exemplify Service

Promote Innovation

Our Values

Impartiality – Integrity – Improvement

Employees of the Legislative Assembly Office (LAO) are proud to provide services to the Legislative Assembly on behalf of the citizens of Alberta. We are guided in our work and conduct by a core set of principles that motivate us as individuals and reflect the qualities of the office as a whole.

Our History

Established in 1983, the origins of Alberta’s Legislative Assembly Office can be traced back to 14th-century England, when Parliament elected the first Speaker and appointed the first Clerk. The Legislative Assembly Office works hard to uphold and abide by parliamentary tradition while at the same time ensuring our operations are run in a nonpartisan manner and respond to the needs of the Members we serve.

It may come as a surprise to some, but the Legislative Assembly Office is not a government department. The government is the executive branch, responsible for applying and enforcing laws, and the Legislative Assembly is responsible for establishing those laws. The LAO is a separate and unique entity from government with the passion and commitment to provide all Members of the Legislative Assembly, regardless of party affiliation, with the support they need to represent and serve their constituents.

we've welcomed 829 individuals as Members of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta. We work in a dynamic environment where our practices continually evolve in direct relation to the changing needs of Members and those they represent. Service will always lie at the heart of our business. In a climate of heightened activity such as a provincial general election our day-to-day activities become amplified and our commitment to cross-branch co-operation becomes more crucial to our success. We strive to create efficiencies and uphold high standards to ensure that even a century from now the LAO remains the thread of continuity for the legislative process in Alberta.

Dr. David McNeil
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta

Our Progress Alberta's Legislature Building: A testament to 100 years of parliamentary progress

"Alberta's Legislature represents a century of history, democracy and tradition, said Speaker Gene Zwozdesky. The Party Under the Dome was the perfect way to celebrate the best of our historic building and the legacy it represents to all Albertans."

The Alberta Legislature Building is a reflection of who we are as a province and how far we've come since 1912, when the doors to the building first opened. Providing a foundation for the legislative process, the Legislature Building has been home to lively debate and historic decisions that have brought us from humble beginnings to the strong province we are today. It was not only steel and stone that was honoured in 2012 but also the tradition and the legacy that live between the walls. Its hallowed halls could tell a thousand stories.

An occasion that only comes around once in 100 years deserved a celebration that would be remembered for generations to come. The year-long festivities began in June 2012 with the unearthing of a time capsule placed beneath the cornerstone of the building during its construction in 1909. In a fashion similar to how it began, a time capsule ceremony will close the centennial celebrations in September 2013.

The Party of a Century

The September 2 Party Under the Dome event began with a step back into the past with a re-enactment of the building's opening ceremony, performed by costumed actors on the Legislature's front steps. The re-enactment was introduced by the Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, and combined various elements of the 1912 inaugural celebrations into a single theatrical presentation. Another of the many highlights of the day was the long-awaited time capsule reveal on the front steps of the Legislature Building. Participating in the reveal were Premier Alison Redford; Speaker Gene Zwozdesky; Honourable Heather Klimchuk, Minister of Culture; Honourable Wayne Drysdale, Minister of Infrastructure and school children from the audience. Just a few of the time capsule's contents were a Bible, newspapers, sheepskin scroll, coins and what are thought to be the original set of blueprints for the building.

And no party would be complete without birthday cake! The Sergeant-at-Arms stood guard as two Alberta centenarians cut the cake, a miniature replica of the Legislature Building. The 1912-inspired fair that followed featured live entertainment, stilt walkers and an antique car display. To top things off, architectural tours of the historic building were offered throughout the afternoon as well.

In the evening an estimated 15,000 turned out with lawn chairs, glow sticks and a whole lot of excitement for the family-friendly centennial concert headlined by Alberta-born and internationally acclaimed country star Paul Brandt. Brandt was preceded on stage by blues rock band Big Sugar and rising country artist Brett Kissel. The jam-packed event came to a close with a spectacular fireworks display launched from the Legislature Grounds.

A Time to Involve Albertans – Let's Vote

Determining what sort of message Albertans of today should leave for the generations of tomorrow was a difficult task. In the end the LAO decided that it was a question best answered by our citizens, for what could be more democratic and steeped in parliamentary tradition than a vote?

"The physical manifestation of our legislative system, the Legislature belongs to the citizens of this great province. It was important to directly involve Albertans in this legacy through the Party Under the Dome and the time capsule initiatives," said Valerie Footz, Legislature Librarian.

Almost 6,000 Albertans participated in a province-wide vote to help decide the top five items for inclusion in the Alberta Legislature Centennial Time Capsule. Voting began in June 2012 and closed on December 31.

At close to 4,000 votes the top item was student letters to the future, representing a link between Alberta's youth of today and future generations. In early 2013 letters to be included in the Alberta Legislature centennial time capsule will be chosen through a province-wide contest.

In second place was a roll of 2012 pennies and a full uncirculated coin set, at just over 3,800 votes. The Canadian penny represents early efforts towards a Canadian identity and economy. Production of the coin ceased in May 2012. Rounding out the top five were newspapers showing coverage of the centennial celebrations, photos of the LAO's School at the Legislature participants in the centennial year and a selection of photos from the time capsule unearthing ceremony in June 2012.

During the online vote the public was also invited to provide original suggestions for time capsule contents. From this an additional 406 suggestions for consideration were received. While many of the suggestions – a Twinkie, for instance – may not be feasible, the feedback will lend inspiration to possible additional contents. The full list of contents is expected to be revealed in 2013.

An Occasion Marked by Teamwork

Planning for the centennial celebrations was years in the making. Like they say, many hands make light work and so too with the centennial celebrations, made possible in part with the support of Alberta Infrastructure and community partners Alberta Culture, the ATCO Group, Corus Entertainment and the Edmonton Journal. “It was a very challenging and work-intensive event but one which was ultimately satisfying in that it brought focus to the Legislature and its history in the development of our province and our capital city,” stated Diane Brayman, Manager of Visitor Services.

With the help of its partners the LAO pulled together and successfully pulled off its biggest event ever. Logistics and event coordination for the day were spearheaded by the Visitor, Ceremonial and Security Services branch with promotions, advertising and media relations contributed by Communications Services. Legal Services supported the massive event through the drafting of sponsorship agreements and contracts for the performers. The delicate process of unearthing and unveiling the 1909 time capsule was overseen by the Legislature Library, who, enlisting the expertise of the Provincial Archives, also co-ordinated the conservation of contents removed from the capsule. With time capsule best practices and with the benefit of the experiences of other Legislatures as a guide, Library Services suggested the ballot list. The infrastructure created to facilitate the online voting system was built and maintained by Information Technology Services.

For over a century now the Legislature Building has stood as a resource for citizenship and democracy. We end 2012 with a look towards the next chapter, the continuation of the centennial celebration which promises to end on as historic a note as it began.

“Alberta has been a driver of considerable social and economic change in Canada over the past 100 years, and the centennial provided the perfect opportunity to highlight the significance of the Legislature Building to the legislative process in a symbolic yet entertaining fashion for all Albertans to enjoy.”

Brian Hodgson, Sergeant-at-Arms and Director of Visitor, Ceremonial and Security Services

The Legacy of an Election

To work within such close proximity to the Legislative Assembly of Alberta is a privilege enjoyed by few lucky enough to work at the LAO. Staff members understand that this privilege comes with the great responsibility of doing all that is possible to anticipate and fulfill the needs of the Members so they can engage with their constituents and effectively facilitate the democratic process. This was never more evident than during the period of transition before and after the 28th general provincial election of Alberta, which took place in April 2012.

Alberta's Election Act 38.1 (2) states that “general elections shall be held within the 3-month period beginning on March 1 and ending on May 31 in the 4th calendar year following polling day in the most recent general election.”

“Each subsequent election has brought different lessons to be learned,” said Jacqueline Breault, Manager of Corporate Services. “The leadership and work ethic shown by staff during this time of increased activity proved that each team member understood what it took to deliver on their core responsibilities. Ensuring that the Members’ transitions would take place as seamlessly as possible is always the top priority.”

With an impending election there was considerable focus on preparing resources to orient the slate of incoming Members and staff to their new roles. LAO staff participated in preparation sessions that provided information on how to manage certain processes and procedures and to review the impacts of the election on the organization and the individual branches. Legal services as well as any assistance with regards to the interpretation of the Election Act were made available to the Chief Electoral Office of Alberta as needed. Various documents that required review included employment forms, lease agreements, dissolution guides, constituency office guides and procedural materials while the proper retention of MLA records and expense forms and the closure of banking services also needed to be dealt with. As well, updates were made to the content of the orientation packages and orientation sessions to properly welcome the new Members.

Electoral boundary changes brought about four new constituencies as well as 19 changes to riding names, necessitating a substantial revamp of the electoral division profiles developed by the Legislative Library. Comprehensive information (20-30 pages in some instances) was compiled for all 87 constituencies; specifically, ridings in Edmonton and Calgary were traced back to their beginning in the first election in 1905. Using electoral division maps, old city maps, homestead maps and legislation, staff were able to pinpoint the 107 year history of city ridings to within a few blocks. Much effort was also made to collect and verify biographical information on each of the candidates.

New Members, New Challenges

Significant changes to the Legislative Assembly took place following the 2012 election, the most notable being the considerable number of new Members and the new Speaker of the House. The business of the House could not continue until a Speaker was elected. Much preparation went into creating a comprehensive briefing package to ensure that the successor would be well-equipped and comfortable to take the seat when the 28th Legislature session opened.

The election also brought the challenge of transitioning the new Members into their constituency offices. Branches worked tirelessly to complete this assignment as there were only about 10 days to turn around the spaces and have them prepared for the Members-elect.

Other important undertakings at this time included the swearing-in of Members, the briefing of procedures for the presiding officers by the table officers and making changes to standing orders that impact all-party committees.

“Election time gives the LAO an opportunity to review the deliverables and services we offer to Members; it allows us to improve upon the processes we already have in place and ensures that we are better prepared with each subsequent Legislature.”

Robert Reynolds, Law Clerk and Director of Interparliamentary Relations

On the more technical end 38 new Member offices were set up and 32 additional office moves were completed, all requiring electronic equipment such as computers and printers. As well, the LAO offered assistance to Members and their staff with respect to the best technological solutions to serve their constituents.

Support was extended to new Members in terms of setting up their Legislative Assembly and constituency finances. Information regarding accounting policies, risk management and insurance, contracts signing and Members services accounts was given as well.

Members' biographies were written by the LAO with contributions from the Member themselves and subsequently posted to the Assembly website for public access.

Employees who joined the LAO were given new employee orientations. These sessions, held in conjunction with the spring constituency employee seminars, provided information on the LAO, constituency office guidelines and administrative branch services.

Life after the Legislature

The excitement of welcoming new Members and staff to the LAO was countered with the challenge of managing the administrative affairs of outgoing staff and Members, those who were defeated in the election or chose not to run for re-election.

“The impartial but personal service and the one-on-one relationship we build with those whom we serve is never more important than at this time of transition,” said Cheryl Scarlett, Director of Human Resources, Information Technology and Broadcast Services.

Individualized meetings were conducted with the 35 departing Members to assist them with their decisions related to their transition allowances and health benefits. Resource information related to career counselling, financial planning and retirement planning was provided and various claims and expense forms also had to be finalized prior to their departures.

Increased supports for employees were also developed and career transition workshops were offered to the 106 caucus and constituency staff whose jobs were affected as a result of the election.

As with any election, this was also an emotional time for Members who needed to close out their respective legislative offices. As always, LAO staff carried out their respective tasks with professionalism and objectivity.

“Members are invariably here to help the people they represent. It is rewarding to know that in some small way we support them in fulfilling their responsibilities to Albertans.”

Partners in Service Exhibit— Paying tribute to the people behind the Premiers

Very few individuals have a concept of the level of commitment required by those who serve in public office. Charged with overseeing all matters at the provincial level, there is no higher post than that of Premier.

“With the Premiership, the commitment of one greatly affects the entire family, who contribute not only through sacrifices made to support the Premier in his/her aspirations for the province but also who work at various levels within their communities and the province-at-large towards the betterment of our province,” said Valerie Footz, Legislature Librarian.

It is one thing to choose a public life for oneself; it is quite another to be thrust into this demanding and highly visible station as a result of the ambitions of a family member. Such was the case for the partners of Alberta's Premiers. While they didn't necessarily choose public life, these 13 individuals embraced the responsibilities a public life brings by contributing their passion, talent and knowledge for the betterment of society. Portraits honouring the service of Alberta's Premiers have graced the walls of the Alberta Legislature for generations, and rightly so, but only more recently did we pay tribute to their dedicated partners.

On May 9, 2012, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta, the Honourable Ken Kowalski, unveiled the Partners in Service exhibit on the fifth floor of the Alberta Legislature. To make the exhibit a reality, many moving parts converged. The research was conducted by Library Services, and Communications Services worked with a local design firm to co-ordinate the exhibit concept and production. As well, Alberta Infrastructure staff were responsible for preparing the space, which included the installation of lighting and the painting of walls as well as overseeing the intricate process of installing the exhibit.

The lion's share of work involved procuring photos of and writing accurate biographies on the 13 individuals who oftentimes lived in the shadow of their formidable spouses. As a consequence, official documentation on these individuals was sparse, especially for those who served in the early 20th century, necessitating the gathering of original research, which took months to compile.

Painstaking hours were spent poring over census, newspapers and archival records, but in many cases Library Services staff had no choice but to go directly to the source and thus began interviewing the partners themselves or descendants to gain insight into these quietly influential individuals. With family histories boasting a strong commitment to public service, it is perhaps not surprising that in all cases staff were met with astounding generosity and assistance from the families. In one case, a grandson entrusted the LAO with his only photo of his grandmother.

While the backgrounds of each partner varied, all held public service in high esteem and each chose to be a positive community influence. Collectively they brought attention to important issues and organizations of the day. In the case of Margaret Getty the contribution was largely through philanthropic efforts in support of hospitals, schools and seniors' residences; whereas, Jeanne Loughheed's legacy lies with the arts community, where she is perhaps best known for her support of the Alberta Ballet, the Calgary Philharmonic Orchestra and the Banff Centre.

The health and wellness of aboriginal communities was a primary focus for Colleen Klein, who participated in aboriginal health conferences and Crossroads women's sharing circle; while the charities near and dear to Marie Stelmach's heart often centred on children such as with the Kids Kottage and the Girl Guides of Canada.

Many partners assisted with the Canadian Red Cross as well as local church and community groups, including the YMCA and community leagues. Support for agriculture through 4-H and other organizations was also common. Another powerful contribution made by many partners involved the development of women at both the provincial and national levels. This work was often done through affiliation with such organizations as the Women's Educational Association and the Edmonton chapter of the Women's Canadian Club as was the case with Mattie Rutherford, spouse to Alberta's first premier.

When asked what she hoped the exhibit accomplished, Legislature Librarian Valerie Footz mused that few Albertans understand the true commitment required by those who serve in political office and that through its recognition of the substantial contributions and sacrifices made by the families of elected officials, she hopes the exhibit provides a more complete and thus truer picture of public life. The exhibit is currently comprised of 13 portraits, and as future chapters in Alberta's legislative story unfold, the legacy of service will continue to be recognized and honoured.

“ The Premier of Alberta holds a demanding and highly visible position. While the contributions of each Premier have become part of Alberta's documented history, the roles that their partners have played have most often gone unrecognized.”

Getting Social with Alberta

Building relationships with Albertans through social media

The Legislative Assembly Office is committed to continually improving its services complementary to the ever-changing needs of Members and ultimately those to whom they are accountable, Albertans.

In July 2012, responding to the need for a more immediate and interactive relationship with the public in order to support the Legislative Assembly's external initiatives, the LAO established an internal social media policy and launched its social media presence.

"Albertans are increasingly reliant on social media as a source of information. Integrating social media in our communications planning supports Members by providing them with information that is of interest to their constituents," said Rhonda Sorensen, Manager of Communications and Broadcast Services.

The LAO's social media policy largely focuses on the goals of informing Albertans of Legislative Assembly news and committee meetings in a timely and proactive fashion, promoting Legislative Assembly events hosted by the Speaker, engaging citizens by being accessible and by participating in interactive commentary online and enhancing the Legislative Assembly's online presence by posting quality nonpartisan photos and videos.

Information is posted on Facebook and Twitter, and videos and photos are featured on YouTube and Flickr. All postings and updates are managed by LAO Communications Services.

During the Legislative Assembly's annual events in 2012 and the Party Under the Dome celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Legislature Building social media played an important role in reaching audiences and industry partners for promotion.

Legislative committees also began to leverage social media to disseminate information, meeting dates and times, presentations and committee proceedings to reach the appropriate audiences. For the Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund public meeting social media is a very important way to interact with audiences watching the live broadcast and online stream. In subsequent years steps will be taken to further enhance the interactive element of the public meeting.

In this day and age social media is arguably the most expeditious way of delivering information to Albertans. Through its participation in social media, the LAO exemplifies its commitment to improving services to Members as their needs evolve.

After all, the business of the LAO is to assist Members in serving constituents. The public expects transparent, accurate and timely information, and social media allows the LAO to fulfill these demands, in turn supporting the Members who serve Albertans.

“Social media has become an invaluable tool in delivering timely messages about Legislative Assembly events and committee information to the Members and the public.”

Rhonda Sorensen, Manager of Corporate Communications and Broadcast Services

Industry experts were invited to speak on a broad range of industry topics, from integrating social media into the broadcast world to closed captioning of live TV services.

“Best practices are continually shared among colleagues within the LBRA membership. However, the chance for face-to-face discussions about the latest trends, the newest technologies and the unique circumstances surrounding the broadcast of Legislative Assembly proceedings is an invaluable experience.” – Rhonda Sorensen, Manager of Corporate Communications and Broadcast Services

Report on the Financial Statements

I have audited the accompanying financial statements of Legislative Assembly Office, which comprise the statement of financial position as at March 31, 2012, and the statements of operations, changes in net assets and cash flows for the year then ended, and a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit. I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my audit opinion.

Opinion

In my opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Legislative Assembly Office as at March 31, 2012, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards.

NOTE 3 Summary of Significant Accounting Policies and Reporting Practices

These financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards.

a) Reporting Entity

The reporting entity is the Legislative Assembly Office, for which the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly is responsible.

The Office operates within the General Revenue Fund (the “Fund”). The Fund is administrated by the Minister of Finance and Enterprise. All receipts of the Office are deposited into the Fund and all disbursements made by the Office are paid from the Fund. The net transfer from the Fund is the difference between all cash receipts and all cash disbursements made.

b) Basis of Financial Reporting

Revenues

All revenues are reported on the accrual basis of accounting.

Expenses

Expenses represent the costs of resources consumed during the year in the Office’s operations.

Valuation Adjustments

Valuation adjustments include changes in the valuation allowances used to reflect assets at their net recoverable or other appropriate value. Valuation adjustments also represent the change in management’s estimate of future payments arising from obligations relating to vacation pay and transition allowance.

Assets

Financial assets of the Office are limited to financial claims such as cash, advances to and accounts receivable from other organizations, employees and other individuals.

Inventory held for resale is reported at the lower of cost and net realizable value.

Tangible capital assets of the Office are recorded at cost and amortized on a straight–line basis over the estimated useful lives of the assets. An asset is deemed a capital item if its invoiced cost is $5,000 (or greater) per item or if an assembly of connected components makes a whole asset (inclusive of labor, shipping, consulting et cetera). The amortization periods are as follows:

Computer hardware and software	3 years
Other equipment	5 years
Furniture	10 years

The Office follows government budgetary practices that allow funds from an operating budget to be used to purchase tangible capital assets. These purchases are included in expenses on the statement of operations, but are then removed from expenses through a valuation adjustment and are capitalized and amortized over their useful lives.

The fair value of cash and accounts receivable and advances are estimated to approximate their carrying values.

Liabilities

Liabilities include all financial claims payable by the Office at fiscal year end.

The Members’ transition allowance is estimated based on Members’ years of service and their most recent remuneration amounts. The annual charge is the amount that is estimated to have been earned by Members during the year.

The fair values of accounts payable and accrued liabilities and Members’ transition allowance are estimated to approximate their carrying values.

Net Assets

Net assets represent the difference between the carrying values of assets held by the Office and its liabilities.

Canadian public sector accounting standards require a “net debt” presentation for the statement of financial position in the summary financial statements of governments. Net debt presentation reports the difference between financial assets and liabilities as “net debt” or “net financial assets” as an indicator of the future revenues required to pay for past transactions and events. The Office operates within the government reporting entity and does not finance its expenditures by independently raising revenues. Accordingly, these financial statements do not report a net debt indicator.

NOTE 5 Expenses Incurred by Alberta Infrastructure (in thousands)

The Office had the following transaction with Alberta Infrastructure for which no consideration was exchanged. The amount for this transaction is estimated based on the actual costs incurred by Alberta Infrastructure to provide the service. The estimated cost for the service is $3,403 for 12,051 usable m² (2011 – $3,155).

NOTE 6 Members’ Transition Allowance Liability (in thousands)

The Office implemented a Members’ transition allowance on October 1, 1998. The provisions of the allowance were established in accordance with the Members’ Allowances Order (RMSC 1992, c. M–1, as amended, Section 9).

A transition allowance is paid to every Member at the time of dissolution of the Legislature unless they are re–elected in the next election.

Members who resign their seats are also eligible for the allowance.

Under section 9 the amount paid for service commencing on or after March 20, 1989, is determined by multiplying three months salary, based on the average monthly salary for the three calendar years in which the person received their highest salary, by the number of years the person served as a Member on or after March 20, 1989. “Salary” is defined in section 9(1). For service periods prior to March 20, 1989, the allowance is calculated by multiplying the highest rate of a Member’s monthly indemnity and expense allowances for one month for every year of service prior to March 20, 1989, with no restrictions. There is no credit for years of service for which the Member has previously received a payment under section 9 or the predecessor section. Eligible recipients may elect to be paid the allowance over a period of up to four years.

In the event of death of an active Member a transition allowance equivalent to the amount owed at passing is paid to the Member’s estate.

Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, Alberta Branch

President's Report

“I am confident in the fact that my CPA colleagues and I have gained trust in one another by way of our many in-person deliberations and solid handshakes shared over the years.”

Honourable Gene Zwozdesky, president of the Alberta branch of the CPA and 12th Speaker of the Legislative Assembly

The Commonwealth Parliamentary Association enables parliamentarians to reach beyond their jurisdictions to contribute to the development of best practices and effective policies on a wider scale. Since its inception the branches of the CPA have achieved many goals through interparliamentary interaction. The association encourages the exchange of information, the sharing of experiences and the debate of policies.

The Alberta branch of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association also plays an active role in promoting interparliamentary relations. Over the course of my six terms as a Member I have enjoyed involvement with interparliamentary relations at various levels, but 2012 was my introduction to my new role as a Member of the CPA executive. In the role of president for the CPA Alberta branch I hold a post on the executive committee, which affords me the chance to play an important role in the governance of the association and to act as the voice of Alberta's Legislative Assembly when attending CPA events. Every day I appreciate the gravity of the responsibility I have as Speaker of Alberta's Legislative Assembly. The conferences that I attend, whether CPA-hosted or otherwise, allow me to reflect and remind myself how grateful I am for the knowledge and advice I receive from many distinguished parliamentarians.

Case in point, the CPA 50th Canadian Regional Conference was held July 15 to 21 in Québec City. Among the many important topics of discussion was the participation of aboriginal peoples in political and parliamentary life. Matters focusing on aboriginal Canadians have long been dear to my heart, so I was particularly pleased with its inclusion on the agenda. As Speaker I am a firm believer that all Members should have a voice in our Assembly, all people, especially aboriginal people, should have the opportunity to participate in all levels of the democratic process.

The CPA executive meeting I attended in Colombo, Sri Lanka, from September 7 to 15 was a much more cultural experience. The conference was a highlight for me in terms of travel to a region so distinctly different in many ways from Canada. Not only was there fruitful dialogue among my colleagues on the executive council, but the event also underlined the significance of personal and face-to-face interaction.

Another timely topic of the regional conference was the impact of conventional and social media on parliamentary government and the role of parliamentarians. In 2012 the Legislative Assembly Office began to integrate social media into its communications to Members and citizens. I appreciate the value of social media and how it has advanced the way we communicate, especially in delivering messages to constituents. In fact, the CPA Secretariat also links their website visitors to the various CPA social media pages, which, too, shows their willingness to explore new ways of reaching their stakeholders.

We now have the ability to communicate using technology at all times of the day. We send files across world boundaries without worry about time zones and carry on conversations with people in languages we don't even speak through speech translation software. There is an argument, however, and a strong one at that, that the loss of face-to-face interactions is a distinct downfall to this barrier-free movement. Armed with the fastest and most advanced devices available, our connection with one another is often limited to words and images on a screen. While technology may continue to expand methods of communication and MLAs may benefit greatly through the employment of various new media options, one of the most rewarding aspects of interparliamentary relations centres on face-to-face interactions.

In my tenure as a Member I have been very lucky to have established many lasting relationships with colleagues from all over the world. While I don't think I could ever go back to a time when electronics were not a part of my everyday work life, I revel in the fact that we are still given numerous opportunities to connect and maintain the associations we have built over our years of public service.

Honourable Gene Zwozdesky,
President of the Alberta branch of the CPA and 12th Speaker of the Legislative Assembly

Secretary's Report

“ The Alberta branch of the CPA has exemplified leadership through its unparalleled service and support to Members, continued commitment to learning and delivery of high-quality conferences, thus facilitating the effective exchange of ideas amongst parliamentarians.”

Dr. W.J. David McNeil, secretary of the Alberta branch of the CPA and Clerk of the Legislative Assembly

I once read that leadership can be defined as a process of social influence maximizing the efforts of others towards the achievement of a goal. By this definition all Members of the Legislative Assembly are leaders, and indeed in their own way each of them is. By this account, the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and its Alberta branch are also leaders. But how does this subject relate to interparliamentary relations? What is the correlation between leadership and the meeting of Members from various parts of the world?

From February 3 to 4, 2012, the Alberta branch of the CPA hosted the 29th Canadian Presiding Officers Conference. When hosting a CPA conference, the host province is given an opportunity to set the agenda with the planning of the business program. The host can ensure a balance between traditional and innovative topics of interest to Members. In our program we invited discussion on important topics such as Canadian-American relations. Other notable discussions looked at the role of the Clerk in support of the Speaker and challenges facing a new Speaker. These were very timely subjects, of course, as we would take part in the 28th general provincial election within a couple months.

As well, we tackled topics oftentimes considered sensitive and controversial such as including a presentation on the challenges and opportunities facing Alberta's oil sands.

In October 2012 the Alberta branch also sent two non-Member delegates to the CPA Canadian Regional Seminar in Québec City to observe. The purpose was to garner knowledge and best practices in anticipation of the same event to be held in Edmonton, Alberta, the following year. This was an invaluable experience for the attendees and proved that in some cases, face-to-face interactions are truly irreplaceable.

The CPA holds conferences frequently and across the world. These events enable parliamentarians to ascertain varying issues faced by other countries. These exchanges also allow Members to learn about different cultures and practices. Most importantly, perhaps, CPA conferences provide both formal and informal settings for delegates to learn from tenured Members with significant experience and know-how.

The one thing we consistently hear is how pivotal these events are for Members and how oftentimes the discussions give new and welcome perspectives to their role as individuals who serve the public.

I have been very proud to attend these conferences on behalf of the Alberta branch. I have seen our branch show superb leadership and innovation, and I know that we are capable of delivering high-quality conferences and programs that help Members to form interparliamentary relationships that they can all benefit from.

W.J. David McNeil,
Secretary of the Alberta Branch of the CPA and Clerk of the Legislative Assembly

Delegate Report

By Wayne Cao

The conference took place in Québec City, hosted by Québec Parliament (Assemblée nationale du Québec), July 15 to 21, 2012. Attending were delegates from Canadian federal and provincial/territorial parliaments, and delegates from parliaments in Europe, Africa, the West Indies, Australia, New Zealand and South Asia.

Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians: Welcoming speech by the Chair, CWP. Round-table discussion on professional advancement for women, talking about barriers and reporting on progress in various fields and jurisdictions. In general women have pushed the boundaries in all fields, with great success in politics, but there is room to do more.

Parliamentary diplomacy and the protection of human rights at the international level: Round table discussion on the efforts, initiatives and approaches to identify and increase protection of human rights, inside and outside our jurisdictions. There were some discussions about whether or not our national government should increase efforts on this front. Some delegates talked about whether the U.S.A. should get into the fray to protect human rights. Some talked about the levels of effort, approaches: interference, intervention, influence, et cetera.

Reinforcing parliamentary democracy in the Caribbean: A project for the Canadian region of the CPA?: Discussion about Canadian parliaments, both at the provincial and federal levels, participating and assisting in the parliamentary systems in the West Indies.

Bicameralism in South Africa: South Africa’s parliamentary democracy, a mixture of proportional representation and regional representation, is still a work in progress.

Participation of aboriginal peoples in political and parliamentary life: Presentation by Alberta delegate MLA Pearl Calahasen along with staff Elections Canada. Statistics from Elections Canada were presented. Great progress in Canada for politicians of aboriginal heritage, taking roles of Speakers, Members and Ministers at all parliamentary institutions.

Women’s participation in politics: Challenges and perspectives—regional views: Presentation by several delegates who are Speakers of their parliamentary institutions. Participation by women in politics is on the rise. Many jurisdictions have women in leadership, from government leaders to Speakers of parliamentary institutions, but there are still personal challenges for women balancing family life and public life.

Are private Members’ Bills a useful tool in today’s Legislatures?: The discussion was around the rights and privileges of private Members to do their duty of law-making. It’s an important part of the democratic process especially under a majority government.

The impact of conventional and social media on parliamentary government and the role of parliamentarians: The presenters shared their experiences with election campaigns and constituency office services. They talked mostly about their websites and their use of Twitter, Facebook, et cetera.

Consensus government in Nunavut: In the parliamentary bodies of Canadian territories there is no partisan delineation, no opposition side and government side. The Premier is elected by all members. The Premier then selects Ministers and all members vote on matters as individuals.

The government budget is the result of consultation with the federal government, based on the needs proposed by the Premier and Ministers.

Delegates’ Report

We feel privileged as delegates from Alberta to have had the opportunity to participate in the National Conference of State Legislatures with our American neighbours as well as other international delegates. Our exchange of ideas about legislative management and policy and how it affects us all from border to border was very beneficial.

Observations include:

- Most U.S. legislators support oil sands development and the Keystone pipeline
- They see Canada as a safe, reliable, almost domestic supply
- They need more information at hand to talk about our accomplishments with respect to environmental impact (water used, CCS et cetera.)
- Political environment is somewhat uncertain with the approaching federal election.
- With the economic struggles the U.S. is experiencing, there is a strong respect for the Canadian system, regulations, et cetera that prevented us from having as much difficulty.
- Overall a keen interest in continuing and building relationships with Canadian legislators.

Delegate Report

By Deron Bilous

As one can imagine, being a first-time participant at this conference meant that I had much to learn about the procedure of the conference, how business is conducted, the governance structure and the roles each province and territory play. Also, developing relationships with other MLAs, MPs and Louisiana representatives was positive, and I can see the benefit of continuing those relationships. Interestingly, I have already been approached about attending next year's APF conference in Toronto. I plan to continue improving my French language skills, and I recognize the value in sending Alberta MLAs who speak French.

I personally benefited from attending the conference in several ways. In three short days much of my ability to communicate in French returned to me. Because the business portion of the conference was conducted in French, I feel inspired to become fluent in French once again. Because of the conference I am interested in how French speakers impact the Alberta economy. We have a significant number of French speakers in Alberta, and I am motivated to learn how the government of Alberta supports our French speakers.

The conference also helped me to build and improve upon my relationships with fellow Alberta MLAs and also those from across the country. I enjoyed being able to work with, socialize and learn from other MLAs regardless of party affiliation.

In closing, I wanted to express my gratitude for allowing me to attend this year's APF conference in New Orleans. Thank you for recommending that I attend this conference, especially as a new MLA. I hope to have communicated some of the value I found through participation in the conference both personally and as an elected representative in Alberta.

Delegate Report

By Heather Forsyth

I personally found the conference very informative, and the delegates attending were very passionate about protecting and maintaining the French language. The discussion spoke to the extent to which the French language opens doors to the labour market in each province, state or region. We heard from delegates who passionately spoke about the importance and economic advantage of knowing French in their province, state or country. We were lucky enough to have a guided tour of government headquarters and the legislative Chambers.

I want to close by sharing with you one session that I found particularly fascinating, hosted by Tom Klingler, Associate Professor at Tulane University. CODOFIL was empowered to do all things necessary to develop the French language in Louisiana, where 227,161 people speak French, 27,613 speak Cajun French and 6,310 speak Creole French. Linguists often recognize three French-related languages: Plantation Society French, Cajun French and Louisiana Creole. Plantation Society French is linked to the wealth of Louisiana plantation society, and Cajun French is closely associated with the Acadians exiled from Acadia.

Conference of the Canadian Council of Public Accounts Committees (CCPAC)

Iqaluit, Nunavut • August 19 – 21, 2012

Delegates

Rob Anderson, MLA, Airdrie, Chair of the Standing Committee on Public Accounts

David Dorward, MLA, Edmonton-Gold Bar

Jason Hale, MLA, Strathmore-Brooks

Mike Allen, MLA, Fort McMurray-Wood Buffalo

Agenda

- Overview of new developments in PAC and AG
- Guest speaker Ms. Sheila Watt-Cloutier, O.C.
- Challenges of the three northern Legislatures
- Best practices of orientation programs for new members of public committees
- Joint interactive voting session: Best practices and solutions to key challenges
- Update on CCPAC
- Staff of PACS: Breakout meeting
- Effective questioning workshop

Delegate Report

Monday morning we had a short briefing from the Canadian Comprehensive Audit Foundation (CCAF), focused on the differences that exist at the provincial, territorial and federal levels.

We then had an hour keynote speech and Q and A with Ms. Sheila Watt-Cloutier OC. She spoke on the effect of three things on the Inuit way of life:

- Poison in the food chain;
- Ozone layer thinning; and
- Global warming.

Her point was that environmental factors have had dramatic affects on the Inuit way of life. The Inuit way of life is dependent on ice. She commented that the Inuit themselves need to show an example and leadership and make sure they are not doing things that negatively affect the environment.

After that, we had a panel discussion on the challenges of the true northern Legislatures. Nunavut, the North West Territories and Yukon were represented.

The afternoon started with a facilitated discussion on how other provinces and territories run their committees. Some discussion of the interaction between the committees and the auditors in each area ensued. After this, we had a very informative and interesting session where we as a group voted on a number of different opinions on how committees work. This was done electronically with each participant having a clicker.

Tuesday morning the chairs and vice-chairs got together, and the auditors and committee members separated into breakout rooms. This was a great chance to in a smaller group grill experienced committee members as to their role and how they do their work. This conversation dominated the morning, although there was time for a short discussion on how to pose effective questions to witnesses before the committee.

Some discussion points/observations:

- The Alberta committee is the largest in the country. This has implications for the number of questions that realistically can be asked in a session. At the conference we learned of how some committees limit the time by member or by caucus and how some committees go free-form.
- We learned how the CCAF can provide training for the committee. We will be exploring this option more in early September.
- We had a lot of discussion about the mandate of the committee and how that mandate varies around the country. Generally our system in Alberta is different than the rest of the provinces. Their focus is mostly on the Auditor General's report whereas our focus is on the various ministries and departments. This difference will be explored by our committee.
- We learned that most of the committees have a planning session in camera. This helps to make the meeting go smoother since committee members are on the same page.
